Not For Profit

Since profits to stockholders aren't a part of the company vision, credit unions are free to pass surplus money onto members in the form of fewer fees, more services and lower rates.

Members are Owners not customers

By democratically-elected, volunteer leadership.

Members helping Members

The money you hold in your account is used to help your fellow members buy homes, start businesses and attend school.

Financial Education

One of the missions of local credit unions is to educate their members about the wide span of money matters that pertain to them now and in the future.

Community

Many credit unions offer scholarships, partake in community events by way of sponsorship or volunteerism, and more.
